General Information

- MET Go! is a general English proficiency test designed for learners of middle to secondary school age.

- MET Go! is aimed at levels A1 to B1 of the Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR). The CEFR describes language proficiency at six main levels, from A1-A2 (Basic User), B1-B2 (Independent User) to C1-C2 (Proficient User).

- The overall score and CEFR level reported are averages of the sections tested.

- Detailed personalized feedback is provided on the back of this score report.

- A section score of X means the test taker was exempt from that section. A section score of 0 means the test taker did not attempt the section, or their answer was not on topic.

- Because language proficiency can change over time, if a significant amount of time has passed since the test was taken, score users should consider the test taker's subsequent experience with English in addition to the test scores themselves.

- Michigan Language Assessment reserves the right to update results or test taker information.

- Institutions may verify results at MichiganAssessment.org

Continue Your English Language Learning

We looked carefully at your answers on the test so we can tell you more about your English. Below is information about what you are good at, what to improve, and things you can do next. Keep learning!

LISTENING

About Your English

You can understand conversations and talks about everyday things well. When listening, you can understand main points as well as details. Also, you can recognize people's attitude and purpose in conversations and talks.

Things To Do

Watch a review of a movie or product you like. In one sentence, summarize what the review is about.

READING

About Your English

You can understand many of the details in what you read. Also, you can connect different parts of a reading. You can understand the main idea or purpose of short readings as well. You know simple grammar and some more difficult grammar, and it helps you to understand what you read. In addition, you know many English vocabulary words. They help you understand simple readings about topics you are familiar with whether they are short or long.

Things To Do

Read a review about a movie you have seen. Do you agree or disagree with the writer's opinion? What points do you agree or disagree with, and why? Tell a friend.

WRITING

About Your English

You can tell a story, write about your personal experiences, and express your opinions. You often use details to develop your ideas. Add more to make your writing even more interesting. Your writing makes it easy for the reader to follow what you are saying. When writing, your excellent grammar and vocabulary skills make your thoughts clear to the reader. You include some long sentences. However, try learning and using some advanced words.

Things To Do

Do you like books or movies better? In English, write about your reasons why. Use five new words in your writing.

SPEAKING

About Your English

You can connect your ideas very well when you talk about what people do. You can also describe familiar places and things, but add more details when you can. When you describe a personal experience, you include a lot of interesting information. Also, you're able to give and support your opinion about a topic that you know about. You can often use basic grammar and vocabulary very well to communicate your ideas. You sometimes also try to use advanced grammar and longer words. Keep it up! Finally, your message is delivered clearly when you speak and is easy to understand.

Things To Do

In English, practice using more details when you talk. Choose a thing or person in the room and describe it in English. Can someone else guess what you are talking about?
